

Sirs,

I wish to express my unconditional opposition to the implementation of any policy or technology proposal that would impinge upon the right of free speech to reach the American public - in particular, the proliferation of Low Power FM (LPFM) service that would override any FM translator service's ability to relay the K-LOVE broadcast network's signals.

I can speak from personal experience of the powerful positive effect of the K-LOVE broadcast network family, which relies heavily on translators - and K-LOVE's consistent support of fundamental American values and families, all in the full public interest - and all in a non-profit, non-advertising format. In the 21st century of extremist public/cable broadcasting, we cannot afford to degrade the ability of any high quality programming to reach the American people.

I urge you to carefully consider the LPFM issue, and NOT support any policy/practice that would clearly restrict access to K-LOVE FM translators by the American public.

Respectfully,

jcl
